Special to the Indianapolis Journal.
FRANKLIN, Ind., Jan. 23.—The students and faculty of Franklin College held an enthusiastic mass meeting yesterday in the interest of the establishment of a college paper. The college has been without a regular publication for almost two years, owing to the financial failure of the Franklin Kodak two years ago. The new paper is to be known as "The Franklin" and will be controlled by a publication board representing the four fraternities and the independent students. The board has been organized and the organization perfected before it was announced at yesterday's meeting.

Hall, who spoke on the importance of the college paper. Prof. F. C. Churchill of Indianapolis was present and entertained the audience. The association is in the debt of the college and is expected to be paid in the near future. The paper is expected to be published in the near future.

PERILOUS TRIP ACROSS THE PANAMA Isthmus

E. K. Parrish, of Kokomo, Has Interesting Reminiscences of His Journey Fifty Years Ago.

BANDIT-INFESTED ROUTE

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.
KOKOMO, Ind., Jan. 23.—E. K. Parrish, of this city, traveled across the Isthmus of Panama as early as 1854. He was among the number seeking the California gold fields in 1849 and was returning home five years later. The passage, from the nature of the case, was attended with peril. Spanish outlaws and robbers watched the only road along which returning miners passed, going East to a distance of thirty miles from the city. The route was a narrow trail, and the gold seekers were exposed to the attacks of the bandits. Parrish, who was a young man at the time, was among the number who were attacked. He was wounded and his gold was stolen. He was taken to a hospital and recovered, but the gold was never recovered. BLACK AND WHITE GHOSTS IN KEEN COMPETITION

Negroes Scared by Headless Man with a Fiddle and White People by "Mysterious Man."

TOWN ALL WORKED UP

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.
PRINCETON, Ind., Jan. 23.—Many of the negro residents of Princeton are greatly worked up over a ghost story. Recently Henry Whitaker, a young colored man, was killed, his head being almost crushed off between two logs.

His residence was one of a row of houses in the eastern part of the town, which were occupied by negro families. A few nights after the man's death residents of the houses along the row were frightened out of their wits, so they claim, by strange noises and doors mysteriously opening. The next day several families moved out and now only two of the houses are occupied. Whitaker was a fiddle player and a colored man of that part of the city are constantly on the alert after sundown now to avoid a headless man with a fiddle under his arm.

The white people take no stock in the negro ghost, but have a "mysterious man" of their own. He wears a long overcoat and a slouch hat and prowls about residences, but when he is seen he immediately glides off without a word. The police will probably take care of the "white ghost."

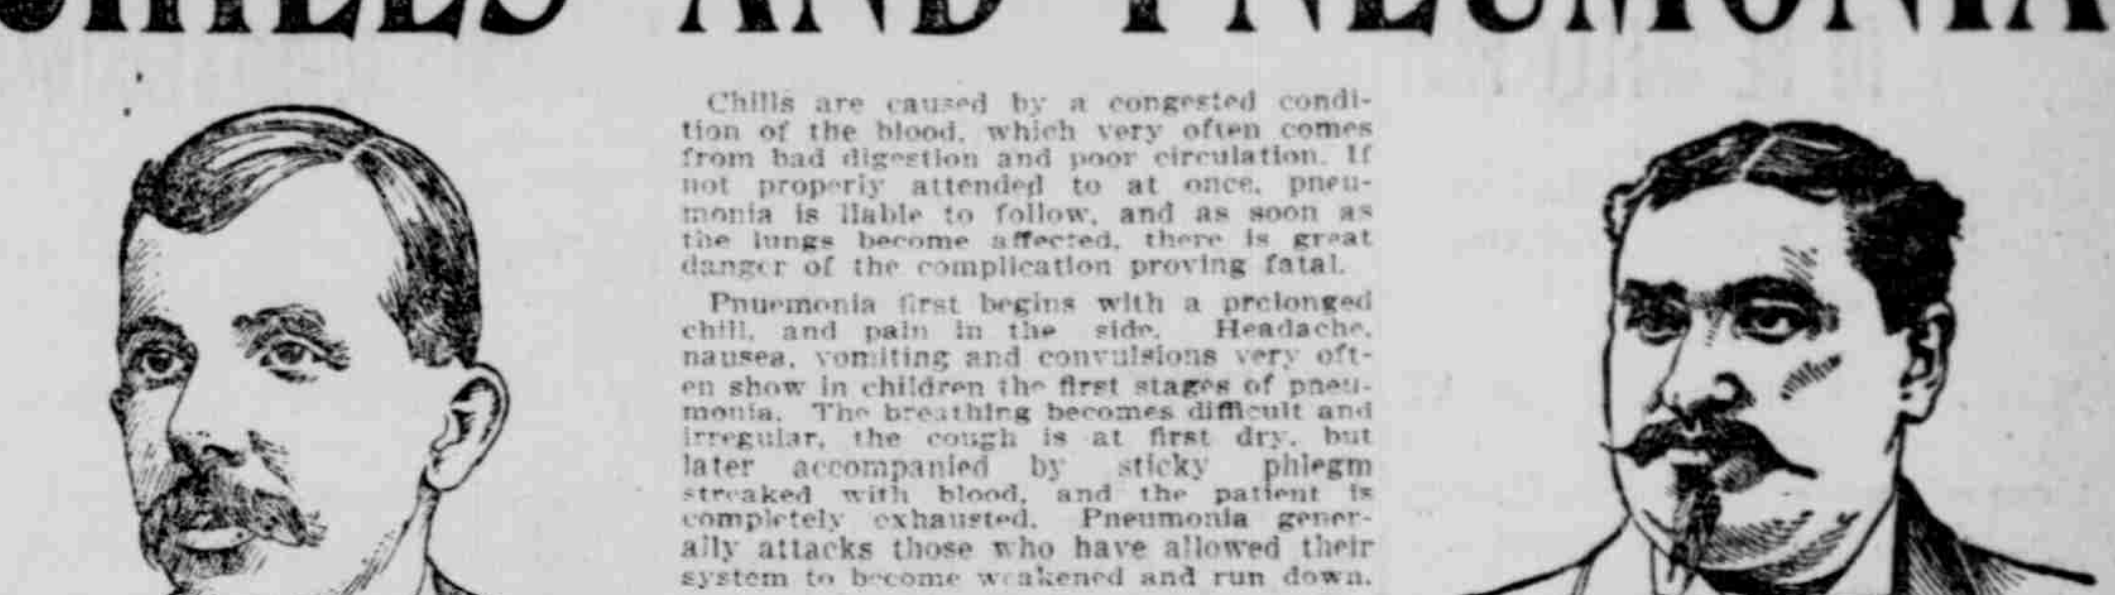

ORANGE COUNTY'S RICH GRINDSTONE DEPOSITS

One of the Many Valuable Stones and Clays Found All Over the Jurisdiction.

OUTPUT OF SHARPENERS

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.
PAOLI, Ind., Jan. 23.—Lying dormant and at present useless under the hills of Orange county—undeveloped and almost unknown—are some of the most valuable deposits of stones and clays to be found in the State of Indiana. Only one of the almost countless varieties to be found here has been developed commercially. From the earliest settlement of Indiana there has been a steady output of grindstones, of all varieties, from the deposits of grit to be found here. It is said to be the only deposit of this stone in the western hemisphere, and is known as Hindostan grit or whetstone rock.

It is found near the French Lick and West Baden Springs, and as early as 1815 was quarried in a primitive way and hauled in ox carts to a French settlement on White river, twenty-five miles away, where a considerable waterfall furnished the power for dressing the stone. It was then loaded on flatboats and floated to New Orleans, where it was transhipped to vessels for the European and Eastern American markets. This French colony, at one time very prosperous, was named Hindostan, and its name the stone has retained to this day. Hindostan was no more. To-day a few scattered pieces of stone and shavings in the rocks where the grinders were set are all that give evidence of the existence of the place. The industry was taken up by others, however, and there are now a number of plants that turn out the grinders, millions of them, not of sufficient quality to justify working. When quarried it can be split by the workmen with a thin depressor, almost, not of sufficient thickness to justify working. MR. CHARLES HEITMAN.

Chills are caused by a congested condition of the blood, which very often comes from bad digestion and poor circulation. If not properly attended to at once, pneumonia is liable to follow, and as soon as the temperature is raised, there is great danger of the complication proving fatal.

Pneumonia first begins with a prolonged chill, and pain in the side. Headache, nausea, vomiting and convulsions very often show in children the first stages of pneumonia. The breathing becomes difficult and irregular, the cough is at first dry, but later accompanied by sticky phlegm streaked with blood, and the patient is completely exhausted. Pneumonia generally attacks those who have allowed their system to become weakened and run down.

DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY

Is prescribed by over 7,000 doctors and used in more than 2,000 leading hospitals. It contains no fusel oil and is the only whiskey recognized by the Government as a medicine. This is a guarantee. The following letters are picked at random from among the many thousands we receive each week from grateful patients.

Hanging Between Life and Death with P. pneumonia. Strong and Well To-Day. Thanks to Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

"Last April I was taken down with severe chills and a heavy cold which developed into pneumonia and for several weeks I hung between life and death, having almost given up in despair. After trying several doctors and remedies, I finally secured a bottle of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, got a bottle and before I had taken half of it I was feeling better. I continued using three bottles I was entirely cured and am strong and well. We keep Duffy's in the house all the time as a household remedy, with all who are sick would try it. If any readers doubt its merits will try to write me, I'll give you a proof. Mrs. C. W. Powell, 505 Clay St., Richmond, Va.

WINDOW GLASS BLOWING MACHINES A SUCCESS

Mechanical Blowers Will Replace Men in All the American Company's Factories.

SAVING OF 87 PER CENT.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.
HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 23.—That the window glass blowing machine is an unqualified success is accepted by even the glass workers themselves. At the American Window Glass Company's Big South Side plant here, known as factory No. 3, the sixteen sixteen machines are working like clock work.

The machines are operated in three shifts of eight hours each and to promote proficiency of the machine operators the company has offered cash premiums for extra production. The shift that makes over 1,500 cylinders receives extra compensation of $1.50 per week. For 1,600 cylinders $2.25 is paid and for 1,700 $3.00 is paid. The men who receive the extra pay are the machine operators, loaders and snappers. The premium has been offered for a long time, but the output of the machines and the number of men employed has not increased. The company has found it most remunerative, however, to employ a few more men, and a week for three shifts would be 1,000 boxes. With the machines the company is enabled to turn out glass at a cost of one-eighth the cost of the former method of operating with human blowers.

The glass blowers now do not contend that mechanical blowers are not all that the American company has claimed for them and the old story of the machine being simply running a huge bluff is seldom heard here where the machines have been in successful operation since last September. It is the intention of the trust to operate the machines twelve months in the year and the one of two factories that it is operating with human blowers this winter in the Indiana glass belt will be closed this spring. Confronted with the mechanical blowers and dissonance in the ranks of their labor organization the window glass workers have a problem to unravel.

SITUATION SLIGHTLY BETTER AT BEDFORD

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.
DELPHI, Ind., Jan. 23.—There is a slight decline here in the level of the water, but the subsidence is largely due to a break in the levee south of the bicycle bridge, which gave way late last night. Several hundreds of acres of rich land in the Deer creek bottoms. It was reported last night that the levee northeast of town had broken, but the excitement was allayed when it was found that the water was only seeping through a few muskrat holes and was not beyond control. These were promptly plugged and a guard set for the rest of the night. An immense amount of property would have been destroyed had this levee broken, as a large part of the best portion of the city is dependent on it for protection. The water is nearly three miles wide, stretching from the foot of Front street, which is but four blocks from the courthouse, and this stretches for miles up and down the creek, but the area will be drained rapidly when the subsidence is once fairly under way.

A CONVERSATION WITH A CLIMAX.

When a Professional Man Talks, It's to the Point.
Several famous American physicians and surgeons were recently dining together after a session of a national meeting held in New York.

"I had a remarkable case this winter," remarked a surgeon present, whose name as a specialist in rectal diseases is world wide. "My patient was a woman, a delicate, nervous creature, who had suffered so fearfully from the ravages of hemorrhoids that the knife seemed the only solution of the trouble, and yet her heart was weak and her strength so wasted by this fearful disease that we dared not operate."

"I had cured my visits to her for a time and had given up all hope, when one morning she entered my office looking like a new woman; the pallor had disappeared and the lines of suffering were nearly eradicated from her face. She said she had bought a drug store for 50 cents a proprietary medicine in suppository form called Pile Cure, and had obtained instant relief from the first insertion. I made an examination and found the rectum in excellent condition, the inflammation entirely disappeared and the swollen veins in normal condition."

"I was so interested in the case that I had the remedy analyzed carefully and was so pleased with the result of the analysis, finding a combination of the most healing and scientific remedies present in the Pile Cure, that I wrote to the proprietor, Mr. P. C. Marshall, Mich., asking for their booklet on Pile Cure, Nature, Cause and Cure (which, by the way, is sent free), and have since used their Pile Cure extensively and with best results in my practice. I do not hesitate to recommend it to you all. It will often save your patient from a painful surgical operation which in many cases results fatally."

BROWN COUNTY MAIL DELIVERED BY BOAT

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.
COLUMBUS, Ind., Jan. 23.—The mail from this city to Nashville, Brown county, to-day was delivered in a boat. Nashville is twenty miles from here, and the mail is taken over each day by a star route carrier. To-day the water had risen so high that the road was submerged in several places and after making several fruitless efforts the carrier had to return to this city. He telephoned to the postmaster at Nashville to send a boat to represent the city to Columbus and meet him. The carrier then took a boat and rowed across the expanse of water with the mail sack in the bottom of the boat. He met the messenger from Nashville and the mail was delivered.

The boat was a standstill to-day and was falling slightly to-night. The river is higher than it has been at any time since 1898.

MRS. FRISBIE GIVEN POSSESSION OF CHILD

Crowd in the Courtroom at Bloomington Cheers Decision of Judge Wilson.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.
BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Jan. 23.—A cheering went up in the courtroom this evening when Judge Wilson decided that Mrs. Frank Frisbie should again have possession of her three-year-old daughter. The case was a bitter contest, in which both the parents claimed the little one.

Both lived in St. Louis and the evidence was to the effect that the mother had been driven from the city by a terrible fire, and that the father passed by the house one day and asked the favor of a farewell kiss, and when the daughter was lifted to him he had down a side street with her, went to Indianapolis and then came here. The father's mother located the father, with the daughter, through a special agent, and by habeas corpus proceedings secured possession.

She appeared in court to-day, and after hearing a statement from both parents, the judge ordered the mother to take the child home with her. The mother and the father broke out in a cheer and the mother was overcome with joy.
